legacy, human emotions and senses are the “fertile soil” that nurtures a love of nature: If facts are the seeds that later produce knowledge and wisdom, then the emotions and the impressions of the senses are the fertile soil in which the seeds must grow. Rachel Carson and a Childhood Sense of Wonder ... Near the middle of the book, Carson defines the “sense of wonder”: A child’s world is fresh and new and beautiful, full of wonder and excitement. It is our misfortune that for most of us that clear-eyed vision, that true instinct for what is beautiful and awe-inspiring, is dimmed and even lost before we reach adulthood.
